

FlightWorks Increases its Charter Fleet in November 2006 with Two Versatile Private Aircraft

November 3, 2006 (Atlanta, GA) -- FlightWorks, a leading provider of domestic and international private air charter and aircraft management services, added two high demand aircraft to its charter fleet in November 2006. The latest additions are a Cessna Citation Sovereign stationed in Washington DC at Manassas Regional Airport (KHEF) and a Pilatus PC-12, stationed in Atlanta, GA, at McCollum Airport in Cobb County (KRYY). FlightWorks manages aircraft in several locations throughout the country to meet the growing demand for retail charter.

The 2006 Citation Sovereign private jet features seating for as many as nine passengers, and it is equipped with a DVD player, four flat-screen video monitors, a satellite phone, a CD player with headsets, a full service forward galley and fully enclosed aft lavatory with sink, vanity and dressing area. The high demand Citation Sovereign, with stand-up cabin and leather captain chairs, is ideal for non-stop transcontinental itineraries such as Washington DC to Los Angeles. With take-off and landing capability from 3600 foot runways, this aircraft can get into and out of a wider selection of general aviation airports – getting you closer to your final destination.

The versatile, fuel efficient Pilatus PC-12 private aircraft features seating for six passengers in leather captains chairs with executive dining tables. It is equipped with a DVD player, four flat screen video monitors, satellite telephone service, a fully enclosed lavatory and a full service mini galley. The Pilatus PC-12, with a cruising speed of 311 mph and 40 cubic feet of internal baggage space (equates to more than 2.5 times the size of a typical automobile's trunk – allowing ample space for luggage and golf clubs) is a great choice for regional travel when fuel efficiency and flexibility are important.

FlightWorks earned NetJet's "Charter Vendor of the Year" award in 2005. The award is based on a company's continued focus on customer service, safety and reliability.
