FlightWorks Expands Its Turbo Prop Fleet

New aircraft – the King Air 350 enhances company’s private jet fleet with greater diversity

KENNESAW, GA – August 15, 2007 FlightWorks, a full service aircraft management and charter company, expands the diversity of its executive fleet through the recent addition of a King Air 350. The versatile turbo prop aircraft provides maximum capabilities for both business efficiency and passenger comfort. The new aircraft will be based near the company headquarters at McCollum Airport (KRYY) in Kennesaw, Georgia.

“The addition of this aircraft increases the number of turbo props in our fleet, providing the most cost-efficient regional travel solution for both companies and individuals,” states Ron Smith, Vice President of Business Development. “With luxurious leather seating for up to 8 passengers and many of the amenities of the larger jets, our clients have a cost- efficient option for regional travel.”

The King Air 350

Manufactured by Beechcraft, the King Air 350 ‘offers the utmost in versatility and capability—making it the definitive “go anywhere, do anything” aircraft’. With its double club cabin, wide array of comforts and amenities – including a full-service refreshment center, private lavatory, DVD, flat screen monitors, CD stereo system and the spacious in-flight accessible baggage area – it combines high performance, luxury and advanced engineering. Prepare to thoroughly enjoy getting from here to there...whether you use your time on board to work or relax. The exceptional short-field performance enables you to save time by getting closer to your destination.

“Anticipating our client’s demands becomes second nature to our professional charter service specialists,” notes Ed Oleksy, Director of Charter Services. “Whether we’re working with corporate clients, professional athletes, movie stars, families or executives – our travel specialists can assist from helping to select - the aircraft that best meets your travel requirements, healthy meals or gourmet celebrations, hotel and guest accommodations, limo and rental car service - in short, we do it all as part of the service we provide our clients. And, chances are, if you don't think of it, we will. We're here to make sure your trip is exactly the way you planned – or, better.”
