FLIGHTWORKS INCREASES STAFF IN SECOND/THIRD QUARTERS OF 2007

KENNESAW, GA – October 29, 2007 – FlightWorks, one of the nation's leading general aviation firms, has added six employees in management and operations in the second and third quarters of 2007.

At the company's Kennesaw, Ga., facility Ari Sarmiento has been named Chief Pilot; Jon Gibson is the Assistant Chief Pilot at the company's Manassas, Va., base and Carey Bell is the Assistant Director of Maintenance, also at Manassas. John Eichenberger is Assistant Chief Pilot for FlightWorks' Kennesaw facility. Gary Tongate is base manager for the Denver operation. Director of Quality and Customer Service Camilo Bohorquez oversees these functions company-wide.

"General aviation continues to grow and FlightWorks' response is to bring in the best of the industry to serve our clients," said Scott Beale, president and CEO of FlightWorks. "Each of these employees has excellent credentials and knows this business."

Here are short biographies about each:

Chief Pilot Ari Sarmiento was formerly Director of Training and Assistant Chief Pilot for a large business jet operator in the Northeast. In addition, Sarmiento flew the line on the Hawker 700 & 800 series aircraft and has accumulated approximately 6,000 hours of accident- and incident-free flight time.

Assistant Chief Pilot Jon Gibson flew Hawkers all over the world. He joined FlightWorks from an Alabama-based air ambulance company. He is a retired Air Force Captain who flew and instructed on C-141 Starlifters and T38s. He is currently a Captain on the Hawker 800 in Manassas and continues to fly that aircraft and one other KHEF-based airplane. Gibson is the company's Designated Check Airman for FlightWorks' Hawker program.

Assistant Director of Maintenance Carey Bell brings nearly 27 years of aircraft-maintenance experience to FlightWorks. He worked at BellSouth Corporate Aviation as Chief Inspector since 1995 and has a degree in Aviation Maintenance Technology. He is also working towards a Bachelor of Science in Aviation Maintenance Management from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, Fla. Bell holds licenses in Airframe and Powerplant, Inspection Authorization and Private Pilots. He has also completed training in Flight Safety Maintenance on the Dassault F900EX, F900, F50, F20, Hawker 700, Cessna 550, 560XL, Beechcraft King Air 200, 1900. He has received training in Maintenance Resource Management, Georgia Tech Hazardous Material Control and Emergency Response, USC Safety Management for Aviation Management and NTSB Accident Investigation.

Assistant Chief Pilot John Eichenberger has been a member of "Team FlightWorks" since November 2003, previously serving as Captain and First Officer on the company's G1159, CE-550 and CE-560XL aircraft. He demonstrates the utmost in attitude, professionalism, knowledge and drive. Eichenberger will continue to fly the Citation Excel and Bravo approximately 8-10 days per month is in the process of receiving Check Airman training.

Director of Quality and Customer Service Camilo Bohorquez brings a tremendous amount of experience to this position with 21 years in the field of customer service and quality management systems at OCE North America. He has proven management skills and embraces the FlightWorks passion for quality service for its owners and clients as well as driving quality initiatives throughout the organization. Bohorquez leads the FlightWorks' Customer Service department under the direction of Vice President of Operations John Hatfield.

Denver Base Manager Gary Tongate has extensive Flight Department Management experience, coupled with many years in the business aviation and charter industries. Tongate previously served as Chief Pilot for TAG Aviation and ACM Aviation in California. His most recent position was Flight Department Manager for Harrah's Entertainment (Memphis Base), which operated several Falcon 2000EX Easy Aircraft.
